

Looking for work in Queensland?

All labour hire providers
must be licensed

Queensland is lifting the standard of the labour hire industry to ensure the rights and entitlements of hired workers in this state are protected.

As a labour hire worker in Queensland, you are entitled to:

- be paid at least the minimum wage or the applicable award wage
- a safe workplace
- reasonable hours, rest breaks and time off work
- be supplied with information on the terms and conditions of your employment at the start of your employment
- be treated fairly and with respect
- suitable accommodation if it is provided to you
- safe transport if it is provided to you
- become a member of a union if you choose.

In Queensland, labour hire providers must be licensed and businesses must only use licensed providers for labour hire. You can search the online register to check whether a labour hire provider is licensed.

Visit labourhire.qld.gov.au to:

- check if a labour hire provider is licensed
- find out about your rights and entitlements at work
- report a problem if you have concerns at work or if you think a labour hire provider may be operating without a licence.

It's about time that we raised the bar for labour hire in Queensland.
